Description

The starting point of this demanding tour is at the valley station of the Gaisberg lift in Kirchberg i.T. At the beginning, the route runs comfortably along the Ache river to the hamlet of Obwiesen. Turn right towards Kleinseite and pass the Manharthof on the left. The route winds uphill in serpentine on a gravel path through the forest. A detour to the Bärstättalm farm invites you to take a break. The now somewhat flatter route leads through meadowland past several alpine pastures, before a final climb has to be mastered shortly before the finish. When you reach the Kobingerhütte, you are rewarded for your efforts with wonderful views as far as Aschau to the Großer Rettenstein and over the whole of Kirchberg, and the innkeepers take care of your physical well-being. The return route follows the same route or there are several alternative routes to get back to the starting point.
