Description

An MTB practice area for everyone - with practice trails from blue (easy) to black (difficult), a pump track and a shared trail. All trails can be combined into different training circuits. The easiest practice area (blue) is located right next to the starting point at the Fleckalmbahn car park. It consists of a fun line with small rollers, jumps, steep bends and wooden elements. Another line with tight curves and a small drop battery slowly increase the level. The jumpline (red) offers six small to medium jumps - bikers can familiarise themselves with some airtime here and improve their jumping technique, whereby all jumps can also be rolled over. At the end of the jumpline is the pump track - a sweat-inducing, 150 metre long circuit with rollers, doubles and banked turns to improve fitness and technique. The more technically demanding trails (black) can be found on the uphill shared trail. The technical training trail boasts tricky hairpin bends, slippery roots and a rock garden. A little further up is the start of the XC downhill. Tight bends, steep steps and a root-based surface demand skill and technique.
