Description

The starting point for this moderately difficult tour is the bottom station Gaisberglift in Kirchberg i.T. From there the route goes gently uphill on forest and hiking trails along the Aschauer Ache stream until Aschau. Here you enter a landscape conservation area, lying below the Rettenstein the so called Oberen Grund. The route leads steadily uphill, passes the Kloogalm until you reach the Ragstattalm, where the route turns left. On a quiet wood path in constant ups and downs the route leads to bottom station of Hiesleggbahn (1.450 m) the highest point of the tour. From there, the tour leads at the beginning downhill on a gravel path and later on the asphalted road. On the station of Pengelstein I you cross the main street and the Aschauer Ache stream. On the bike and hike way you get back to Kirchberg i.T.
