Altitude profile

Description

Easy, flowy trail which leads in the upper part the trail through forest area, crossing a hiking trail once and a forest road three times before it leads into an alpine pasture. At the end of the alpine pasture, the trail initially merges into a utility path, which leads out of the Ragginggraben ditch. Caution! Drive slowly as oncoming traffic must be expected! After about 200 metres, the trail begins again and leads into the valley between the stream and a utility or forest trail, before it ends on the paved road.
